INITIATIVE

Lisa Faison Information Technology

What do you do:

I am the new Deputy CIO leading the operations side of IT. I will be focusing on processes, standards and helping the city mature further with daily IT support.

Where did you work before:

Seven-and-a-half years with the City of Phoenix and 18 years with the state of Arizona Department of Economic Security.

Favorite thing about working for the city:

I am sure this will change as I am here a little longer, but so far it has been the welcoming to the Goodyear family with open arms.

Favorite core value:

I love all of the core values, but so far I'd have to say my favorite is adaptability. With adaptability, you are likely to have innovative ideas and be willing to take the initiative and embody the other values. Being adaptable is much like being a chameleon: you change to the current environment— just like Goodyear, who has a rapidly changing environment. We are changing in order to support and thrive in our new environment.

Fun Facts

What do you do for fun:

Hiking, gardening and hanging out with my family watching sports

If you could have one superpower what would it be:

To be invisible, so I could help people without them knowing it

Cannot start the morning without:

Coffee, coffee and more coffee

Dream vacation:

Going to the rainforest and learning more about such a unique ecosystem

Favorite quote:

"I can accept failure, everyone fails at something. But I cannot accept not trying."
- Michael Jordan
